

I support removal of CW requirements as part Amateur requirements. Most other countries have removed CW as a requirement and the United States should do so also to keep pace with newer means of communications. I do not believe in giving technicians access to the general license area until they pass their general written test and would favor maybe increasing the difficulty of the test.